EMPLOYEE SCHEMES

Scheme Name	Details	Eligibility Criteria	How to Access Support	Comments and Resources
Coronavirus Job Retention Scheme	Summary Support to cover up to 80% of salary costs of any employee that is not working and would otherwise be laid off due to Coronavirus but whose job has been retained (called a 'Furloughed Worker'). Key Features The employee's salary will be paid through payroll in the normal way. The maximum amount which HMRC will reimburse the employer per Furloughed Worker is £2,500 per month. There is no overall funding limit. Claims will be backdated to 1 March 2020. Employers will need the employee's agreement to only pay 80% of their entitlement, however, this can be obtained when negotiating with the employee to categorise them as a 'Furlough Worker'.	All UK employers with a PAYE scheme will be eligible. This includes the public sector, local authorities and charities. The scheme will cover full-time and part-time employees, as well as those on agency, flexible or zero-hour contracts.	Steps to apply: <ol style="list-style-type: none"> 1. Designate the affected employees as Furloughed Workers and notify them of this change in status. 2. Once the new online portal is live, submit information to HMRC about the Furloughed Workers (we are awaiting further guidance from HMRC on this). Employers can only submit one claim every 3 weeks, which is the minimum length an employee can be furloughed for.	It is anticipated that the scheme will be in place by the end of April 2020. The scheme will be open for at least the next 3 months but is widely expected to be extended beyond this date. The Furloughed Worker's employment remains subject to existing employment law and, depending on the affected employee's employment contract, may be subject to negotiation (for example, there may be on-going contractual benefit entitlements). Full scheme details are set out here: https://www.gov.uk/guidance/claim-for-wage-costs-through-the-coronavirus-job-retention-scheme

Statutory Sick Pay (SSP) Rebate

The Government is working on a rebate system for certain businesses to reclaim up to two weeks' SSP paid to eligible staff for sickness-absence relating to the COVID-19 outbreak (from 13 March 2020 onwards).

Eligible businesses must:

- be UK-based; and
- be a small or medium sized and employ fewer than 250 employees as of 28 February 2020.

The application system and scheme mechanism are currently being developed by the UK Government.

We expect further details on this scheme to follow in due course.

PRACTICAL MEASURES

Corporate and Commercial

Action	Details	Solution	Comments
Review Existing Banking Facilities	Keep business forecasts under regular review to identify the likely impact on revenue streams, and whether there are likely to be any challenges in meeting repayment obligations, or financial covenants during any period of downturn.	If it appears likely that revenues will dip to such an extent that they will affect the ability to meet repayment terms or financial covenants will not be met, speak to your relationship director at an early stage to see what options are available to you, for example, whether covenant testing can be suspended, or covenants amended, and whether temporary changes to repayment terms can be accommodated.	They key thing is to open lines of communication early before the businesses' financial situation becomes critical to explore what options might be available.
Review Supplier & Customer Contracts	Review the terms of contracts under which you supply goods or services to your customers, or your suppliers supply good or services to you. Understand to what extent you (or the other contracting party) are able to continue to fulfil your (or their) contractual obligations, or whether government restrictions prevent or hinder performance, and what alternative options may be available to navigate some of the additional challenges currently being faced.	Acuity can provide tailored legal advice on the terms of your contracts.	The effect of COVID-19 and what this means for your customer and supplier relationships will vary depending on a number of factors, including: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> ▪ industry type; and ▪ the terms of the contract itself Depending on the precise terms of the contract, it may be possible to: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> ▪ have a longer period of time to perform contractual obligations; ▪ suspend performance of the contract; or ▪ terminate the contract. However, not all contracts contain express provisions to accommodate unforeseen circumstances or 'force majeure' events so different options – both commercial and legal – may need to be considered.

Changes to the insolvency laws	The Government has proposed changes to the insolvency laws to reduce the pressure on businesses in financial distress due to the Coronavirus outbreak. The proposed changes will include a temporary moratorium for businesses seeking a rescue or restructure, allowing them to continue to trade and access raw materials. A temporary suspension of unlawful trading has also been announced in order to reduce the threat of company directors incurring personal liability. The changes will operate retrospectively from 1 March 2020.	If your business is unable to meet its debts due to the impact of Coronavirus, the relaxation in the insolvency rules may offer you greater freedom to continue trading whilst seeking a restructure or rescue. Acuity can provide tailored legal advice on the insolvency rules to businesses and directors. Please get in touch with our restructuring team who will be able to talk you through the options available to you.	Full details of the changes will be made available in due course. Acuity will provide a full analysis of the revised rules once details have been confirmed.
Accounts Extension	If, immediately before the filing deadline, it becomes apparent that a company will not be able to file their accounts due to being affected by the outbreak, the company may make an application for an automatic and immediate 3 month extension to file its accounts.	All companies due to file accounts may apply. Applications can be made online here: https://beta.companieshouse.gov.uk/extensions	If Companies do not request an extension, then an automatic penalty will be imposed. Any appeals would then be dealt with under the existing Companies House guidance for appeals based on unforeseen ill health. Companies that have already extended their filing deadline, or shortened their accounting reference period, may not be eligible for an extension. Guidance can be found here: https://www.gov.uk/government/news/coronavirus-if-your-company-cannot-file-accounts-with-companies-house-on-time?utm_source=c2ba96c8-8dc3-4ec4-a459-79a056d29160&utm_medium=email&utm_campaign=govuk-notifications&utm_content=daily

Consider when / how to hold the Annual General Meeting	Consider whether to delay, postpone or adjourn a planned Annual General Meeting (AGM). For companies with their financial year end being 31 December, the deadline to hold the AGM will be 30 June in order to comply with UK legislation.	Consider whether it may be appropriate to hold a “hybrid” (a mixture of electronic and in-person attendance) or virtual AGM. These may be the only viable methods to hold an AGM if tighter restrictions on movement are enacted. Check the articles of association of the company to establish whether a virtual or “hybrid” AGM can be validly held. Acuity can assist with a review of constitutional documents to see whether these are a possibility.	We anticipate that the Government will look to relax the 6 month deadline to hold AGMs but in the meantime: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> ▪ communicate with shareholders as much as possible over the coming months so that they can find out about any changes to planned AGMs; and ▪ encourage early proxy submissions so that shareholders can vote on any resolutions proposed.
Consider force majeure contract clauses	Review the terms of contracts to see if any contain force majeure clauses and, if so, what the terms of any such clauses state. Understand the extent to which force majeure clauses will impact your contractual obligations and/or rights.	A force majeure clause expressly excuses a party from performance following the occurrence of certain events. It may be that a pandemic, such as COVID-19 (coronavirus), is covered under such clauses. All new contractual agreements need to be drafted proactively to take account of the impact of COVID-19 (coronavirus) and the impact that any future extraordinary issues such as future pandemics may have. Acuity can provide tailored legal advice on the terms of any force majeure contract clauses and the appropriate drafting of future contracts to cover such issues.	The burden of proving that performance is excused rests upon the party relying upon the force majeure clause. That party must prove that the event in question falls within the clause and that non-performance as caused by that event.

Consider government protection for tenants and insolvency proceedings for Landlords. Be alive to lease terms, rights and obligations.	Assistance for tenants The new Coronavirus Act 2020 sets out immediate protection for commercial tenants. Assistance for Landlords Notwithstanding this protection for tenants, landlords can still seek recourse against defaulting tenants by way of insolvency proceedings.	Assistance for tenants Landlords are prevented from forfeiting leases for rent arrears until 30 June 2020. The measures apply to any lease which falls under the definition of a business lease within Part 2 of the Landlord & Tenant Act 1954 (the Act). This covers all business tenancies, regardless of whether they have contracted out of the protection of the Act itself. There is no requirement for a tenant to demonstrate that the rent arrears have arisen due to COVID-19 (coronavirus). Tenants will still be liable for any unpaid rent after 30 June 2020. Assistance for Landlords It remains open for landlords to seek payments of unpaid debts, such as rent, by making formal demands or by issuing statutory demands. These could potentially result in winding up petitions against tenants who fail to pay their rent. Tenants may also be liable, in accordance with the terms of their lease, to pay the landlord's costs of pursuing rent arrears. Parties are encouraged to review the terms of	The terms of the Coronavirus Act 2020 will be welcomed by commercial tenants who have been hit quickly by the COVID-19 (coronavirus) pandemic and its correlating restrictions. Tenants should remember that they are still liable for their rent and should pay this as usual if this can be done. If they face financial hardship and struggle to do so, they should speak to their landlord to see if they can work together to put in place a voluntary rent payment scheme such as rent deferrals or holidays. The protection only applies to rent arrears. If the tenant is in breach of other covenants, such as repair, the usual steps can be taken to give notice and potentially forfeit the lease. Landlords should be alive to the possibility that tenants may go on strike over rent and should plan accordingly. Tenants should appreciate that in the absence of dialogue and working together to reach a common ground which could beyond the three month moratorium, short term gain, in the form of the time to pay delay, may result in a more rigid approach regarding the enforcement of contractual.

		their leases to ascertain the extent to which such terms, and other terms relating to the payment and recovery of rent, exist. Parties should also consider how much of their leases are left along with options to terminate. Acuity can advise on rights and obligations under leases along with insolvency proceedings and arrangements for the payment and recovery of rent.
Consider the doctrine of frustration	Keep the contractual doctrine of frustration in mind when considering the effect of COVID-19 (coronavirus) on the enforceability of your contractual relationships and obligations and those of your customers.	The doctrine of frustration can be used to terminate a contract immediately upon the occurrence of an event or circumstances that are so serious and unforeseen that the law cannot justifiably expect a contract to continue. Acuity can provide tailored legal advice on the applicability of the doctrine of frustration.	The doctrine of frustration is complex, and the court will take into consideration several factors when determining whether the doctrine of frustration applies to a contact.
Review court correspondence / correspondence from Acuity Law regarding hearings	Review correspondence received from the court or correspondence from Acuity Law to see if your hearing is taking place and, if so, in what format.	Courts hearings are still taking place although, especially in the short term, there may be cancellations. Where court hearings are taking place, technology in the form of telephone, skype and video conferencing is being used as much as possible and attendances in person at court are only being ordered in the rarest of cases. Acuity Law will let you know if there are any changes to any upcoming hearings.	Parties are encouraged to contact the court if they have not heard from the court regarding any upcoming hearing and are concerned about whether they will be taking place or their format.

Negotiations between Landlords and Tenants regarding rent payments	Tenants are approaching Landlords to ask for concessions to ease the financial impact of the COVID-19 outbreak. If Tenants are unable to reduce their liabilities then they could be pushed into insolvency. In particular it may be difficult for Tenants to pay quarterly in advance for a premises that is shut or where the Tenant is barely trading from the premises.	The effect of COVID-19 could have a significant impact on both Landlords and Tenants during the term of the lease. Acuity can review the terms of a lease and can look at options whether from a Landlord or Tenant perspective. Parties should look to open discussions as soon as possible	Landlords can take various actions against Tenants to enforce rent payments under the terms of the lease (although the Coronavirus Act includes provisions preventing Landlords from forfeiting for unpaid rent until June 30th 2020). Even so, it is likely to be beneficial to each party if they can reach an agreement. Parties may wish to consider agreeing one of the following: <ul style="list-style-type: none">▪ monthly rent as opposed to quarterly rent payments;▪ rent holidays; or▪ rent reductions. Leases do not allow for rent reductions or rent suspensions during the term of the lease unless insured damage has occurred.
